Consumer Confidence Survey

Consumer confidence picks up in July 2018.

The Banque centrale du Luxembourg's consumer confidence indicator has picked up in July 2018.

All the components of the indicator have evolved favourably this month with the exception of that related to unemployment in Luxembourg, which has deteriorated.

In July, households' expectations about both the general economic situation in Luxembourg and their personal financial situation have improved. In the meantime, households have strongly revised their expectations about their capacity to save. In total, the consumer confidence indicator, which is the arithmetic mean of the four components¹, has picked up in July 2018.

Note: The consumer confidence indicator results from the average of balances related to consumers' expectations of (1) the general economic situation and (2) unemployment (inverted sign) in Luxembourg, of (3) their financial situation and (4) their future savings. Balances are constructed as the difference between the percentages of respondents giving positive and negative replies. In terms of unemployment, a positive reply means an unfavourable development in the labour market.
