CONSUMER CONFIDENCE SURVEY

Consumer confidence increases notably in October 2018.

The Banque centrale du Luxembourg's consumer confidence indicator has notably increased in October 2018.

All the components of the indicator have evolved favourably this month with the exception of that related to households' expectations about the general economic situation in Luxembourg, which has remained stable.

In October, households' concerns related to unemployment in Luxembourg have decreased again while their expectations about both their personal financial situation and their capacity to save have improved markedly. In total, the consumer confidence indicator, which is the arithmetic mean of the four components¹, has notably increased in October 2018.

Note: The consumer confidence indicator results from the average of balances related to consumers' expectations of (1) the general economic situation and (2) unemployment (inverted sign) in Luxembourg, of (3) their financial situation and (4) their future savings. Balances are constructed as the difference between the percentages of respondents giving positive and negative replies. In terms of unemployment, a positive reply means an unfavourable development in the labour market.
